Library to You - Home is Where

Dear Friends of Literacy,

George knocks on the door, then glances at the front window. The blinds open slightly and he is beckoned to come in. As he walks through the door, Dorothy is standing just inside to meet him, a smile on her face. George has stopped by to deliver her library books through the Library to You program.

The St. Charles City-County Library is able to offer Library to You outreach services through donor support to the St. Charles City-County Library Foundation. Through the generosity of others, those who are disabled, homebound, or struggling with impaired vision are able to receive regular deliveries of library materials. Books, movies, and music are delivered to a customer's home by a volunteer or through the mail.

Dorothy loves to read and she has always been a regular at the Library. But about two years ago, Dorothy developed severe leg pain requiring surgery. She suddenly found herself homebound. She relied on family for groceries and necessities, but how would she get her library books?

Through the Library to You program, George visits Dorothy every two weeks with a fresh supply of materials from the Library. "George is a lifesaver," Dorothy says. "He rarely picks out a book that I don't like." Dorothy prefers audiobooks these days, and escapes to her bedroom with a thriller or a mystery most evenings. "Without books from the library, I would go bonkers," Dorothy says. "Library to You is a great program!"

Whether customers are inside the Library or enjoying library materials at home, the St. Charles City-County Library is available to everyone thanks to generous donors that provide funding to Library to You through the Library Foundation.

I invite you to make a donation to support outreach programs including Library to You. Thank you for joining our commitment to promoting lifelong learning and improving literacy for the entire county. You help make possible the St. Charles City-County Library's life-changing programs and services for our community.

Sincerely,

Erica Land
Director of Development
